LATE SUMMER DAYS

Special Correspondence of The Sunday Republic.

Jamestown, R. I., Aug. 39.—Two weeks more, and the summer life at this little island will have so diminished that the season will be considered about at an end for 1901. To be sure, some of the cottagers will remain much longer, and there will be the last guests at the hotela, but it will then be time for the children to begin their fall term of school and for the father to go back to lusiness.

It has been well said that there has never been a time in the history of Jamestown as a summer resort when so many pretty girls were assembled at one time, and this really means the St. built galaxy, whose beauty has become proverbial. To see their entrance at the Newport Cabial. To see their entrance at the Newport Casine during the tennis tournament tells the story, or at any of the swell dances in Jamestown.

The one-act play, "Shades of Night," presented by smateurs at the Casino last week, was well enacted and passed off smild much applause, but the sextet from "Florodors" was forbioden by parties in New York on the ground of copyright
isw. In its place, Stewart Haird sang "Rosie,
You Are My Posle," and "When Beuben Comes to Town, was danced and sing by Miss Wethereil, Miss Brice and Mr. Baird and Mr. Canneld. The performance was repated once later in the week, when "The Thile of the Kangaroo" and the "tioneynuckle and the Bee" were substituted for the sextet. The amateurs covered hemseries with glors.

DROUGHT A BLESSING HERE.

Makes Arizona's Alfalfa Crop Worth Ten Million Dollars.

frought in the Middle and West States and the consequent general scarcity of hay and grain are proving a blessing to Arizona. In the consequent general scarcity of hay and grain are proving a blessing to Arizona. In this Territory the heaviest harvest of wheat and barley that has ever been known has just been gathered, and two crops of alfalfa of unprecedented size are stored away safely. It is this great crop of alfalfa that will be of particular value to the ranchmen of Arizona. While wheat and barley are grown profitably, the land in most of the agricultural districts is being gradually given over to the more remunerative alfalfa.

Arizona supplies hay to nearly all of Northern Mexico, part of New Mexico, and even ships into California and the Northern States. By far the largest alfalfa section is about Phoenix. In this valley there are nearly 100,000 acres of alfalfa, and $2,000,000 is a conservative estimate this year of its value. From two to five crops will be gathered, averaging from one to one and one-half tons per acre. The price of hay is now at $7 per ton, and is rising.

In other parts of the Territory the average production will not be as high as in the valley, but $10,000,000 as the total worth of Arizona alfalfa will not be in excess of the final figures. Heretofore Arizona's alfalfa market has been restricted by the size of the hay crop in the East and the low prices at which it could be supplied to the Southwest. There has always been a big profit, however, in putting it into the mining camps.

demonstrated when Edward Brown of New York and John Ryle, the pilot, went fishing in Wescett's Cove. Mr. Brown hooked a big bass, it took a long time to tire the fish, but he was finally brought to the boat ready for Ryle's gaff.

Ryle planted the gaff and was about to draw the prize aboard, when a shark turned under the boat and grabbed the bass. Both men hung to the prize and pulled it away from the shark, but not until the sharp teeth of the bigger fish had split the bass its entire length.

The base weighed thirteen pounds. The shark, deprived of the bass, lashed about for several minutes, as if eager to get at the men, who were much relieved when the big fish finally swam away.

Identity was made known.

Lost to His Family.

Foster is now 70 years old. Twenty-two years ago he drifted without ceremony from his wife and family. It was not known where he went, and his prolonged and unaccountable absence led his people to believe that he was dead. Several years after his departure Mrs. Foster died, leaving three small children, who grew up without a father's care. Two of the children, now, living in Greene County, are Mrs. John Dauhm, wife of a prominent Greenfield liveryman, and B. E. Foster, a farmer. Another daughter resides in Californis.

Married in Kansas.

Romance and hardships, it is now unfolded, came into the life of this odd character as he aimlessly pursued a course westward. Arriving in Kansas, he fell in love and again married, his better half being the owner of a fruit farm. They found the business unprofitable, and removed to San Antonio. Tex., where marital crosses led to a separation.
